

Slayer of Mrs. York Pleads Not Guilty

Boswell Citizen October 29, 1914 - transcribed & contributed by Ron Henson

Tom Bonds, the young man who shot and killed Mrs. Lula York, 8 miles south of town in June, was arraigned in the district court Monday and pleaded not guilty to a charge of premeditated murder. His trial was postponed until the next term of court and it is understood that Bonds will plead that he was temporarily insane at the time he shot Mrs. York.
