

Fort Towson's Representative Town Builders
Not Boomers, But Wide Awake Citizens
Who are in Line for Progress and Prosperity

The Ft Towson Enterprise August 11, 1905 - transcribed & contributed by Ron Henson

Thomas Fennell

Nine years ago the subject of this sketch came to Doaksville, one mile northwest of Fort Towson; from Leadville, Colo., and when the present townsite was established removed here, and is now a permanent citizen. Mr. Fennell is postmaster of Fort Towson, is vice president of the Farmers' Exchange Bank and is a notary public. He owns a home and will immediately begin the construction of a brick building into which he will remove the postoffice. At present he carries a stock of stationery, but contemplates putting in a larger supply when his new building is completed. He is a public spirited citizen and an exceedingly clever gentleman.
