

Life for Stewart

Fort Towson Enterprise – March 1912 – transcribed by Ron Henson

Sam Stewart, on trial last week for the killing of Henry Jones, near Boswell, last summer, was last week given a life sentence in the penitentiary. Mr. Mattie Jones, wife of the murdered man, was on trial with Stewart for the same case against her.

It will be remembered that Jones was killed one night and that for some time there was no clue as to the man or person who did the shooting. Finally, Stewart was arrested for the crime and later Mrs. Jones was implicated.
